

Serving God and Family Newsletter

Volume 1 ~ Number 1

18 August 2008

The Serving God and Family website is up and running! The website still needs some work. I will be putting together the "Biblical Womanhood" and the "Stay At Home Moms" section soon. I have so many topics to write on and I also want to incorporate articles from my blog onto the website. I will also be adding a "Contributing Writers" section in the near future.

Venturing into the realm of my very own website is exciting and a bit intimidating. Fortunately, my wonderful husband has been such a great encourager and supporter of my heart's desire to have a website dedicated to the Christian Wife and Mother.

I will be addressing many issues that a Christian woman encounters through the course of her life. Should a Christian wife and mother work outside the home? Should Christian parents send their children to public schools or is homeschooling the way to go? How does a Christian woman remain modest in her appearance in a world that does not value modesty? How can we prepare our young daughters for the roles of wife and mother? These are only a few issues that I plan to address through not only my writings but the contributions of other Christian women.

I will also add a section for "Home Cooking" and ask for those who feel inclined to send in your recipes! Within this section I will talk about "Grocery Shopping Wisely" and "The Fruit of Being Frugal". As a Christian SAHM I have a responsibility to be a good steward of the money my husband brings home. One way I can accomplish this goal is by preparing meals that are not only nutritious but inexpensive. Cooking and baking from scratch has proven to be the most cost efficient way to prepare meals on a one income budget. It does take more of my time, but in the end saves us a lot of money.

I pray that as you browse through the pages and articles on the "Serving God and Family" website you will be encouraged in your role of wife and mother. I also hope that it will provide resources in learning how to remain a Godly woman in a decaying moral society. True femininity is a blessed thing and I pray that you will come to embrace the roles that the Lord has outlined for women who seek to honor Him.
